Those who follow baseball will be interested in the announcement that Poland, who was formerly a star performer on the Barre-Montpelier baseball team, is one of three men to be retained by the Providence, R. I. management. While playing on the local team, Poland was the man who made so few errors that the spectators were always ready to forgive him when he did.

Miss Jessie Busley, who comes to the opera house on Saturday night in the new play, "In the Bishop's Carriage," is one of delayed star quantities of the dramatic firmament. Mr. George C. Tyler secured her services to head the present organization because he believed she had been overlooked by astute managers as a stellar attraction, and his judgment appears to have been well founded, for Miss Busley has achieved little short of a triumph in the portrayal of the character of the girl thief, the principal part of the play. Tickets Thursday night at 7 o'clock.

About forty of the friends of Ralph Vinol gathered at his home on the evening of February 11, to remind him of his twenty-first birthday. Was it a surprise? We judge it was from the fact that he was found dressed in retiring regalia. He was soon brought to the first floor and a good time began. The evening was spent playing games, and refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Mr. Vinol was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. The party broke up at midnight, wishing their friend many more happy birthdays.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

The auditors are busy at work on the accounts of the town.

Quite a party from Barre enjoyed a ride to this village last evening with supper at the Monument house.
